

INVITATION

to nominate candidates for Arne Sjögren's prize for the most innovative PhD thesis in the area of nanoscience and nanotechnology at Chalmers in 2020

Dear Nano scientist!

We are glad to invite you to nominate candidates for Arne Sjögren's prize for the most innovative PhD thesis in the area of nanoscience and nanotechnology at Chalmers in 2020. The prize had been founded to recognize an outstanding student in this area, with the prime aim to boost a future career in academia or industry. It has been made possible by a generous donation by Chalmers alumnus Arne Sjögren (F68) who in his will donated part of his estate to be used for the benefit of research in the area of nanoscience and nanotechnology at Chalmers. Besides the honor, the winner will receive a prize sum of 30 000 SEK and a chance to present his or her PhD thesis work at the upcoming community building activity, organized by the Excellence initiative Nano, planned in August 23-24, 2021.

Eligible candidates must have defended their PhD thesis during 2020 at Chalmers, and can be nominated by their supervisor or examiner. A nomination should include the following material, to be submitted electronically to Michael Eriksson (michael.eriksson@chalmers.se) no later than May 17, 2021*:

1. Short statement from the main supervisor or examiner that motivates why the nominee deserves to win the prize
2. Names, e-mail addresses and phone numbers of the opponent and the members of the evaluation committee
3. An electronic copy of the PhD thesis (or a link to if the thesis is too large), including the popular science description

Evaluation criteria are the nominee's ability to reach innovative research results or to develop innovative research methodology within the area of nanoscience and nanotechnology. Particularly strong candidates are those who have excelled in both aspects. The evaluations will be carried out by representatives of the steering group of the Excellence initiative Nano.

We are looking forward to your nominations!

Best regards

Janine Splettstoesser, Director
Christoph Langhammer, Co-Director
